GIFTS-TAKING.-Ex-President Johnson, in his speech at Knoxville, discussed gift-taking by public functionaries, and he treated it as a "high crime." In this view of the matter, he was warranted by high English authority. He adduced in illustration the action of the House of Commons in 1695 in respect to their Speaker, Sir John Trevor. We copy the account of Trevor's case which Mr. Johnson extracts from the historian:-Richmond Whig. "It was the funeral of Queen Mary, the wife of King William 3d. Her burial took place on the 5th of March, 1695, a day long remembered in London. She had died young and was beloved. Her death was sudden, almost terrible. Public sorrow for her was very great. Never was there so universal mourning, constrained by true sympathy. Parliament re-solved to follow her body to the grave. Never before had Parliament followed a royal funeral. They did so, however, robed in long cloaks of scarlet and black, attended by the maces, the emblems of their dignity. But the House of Lords and the House of Commons came after the hearse, on which was laid the purple velvet-shrouded coffin. The streets were hung with black. It was in truth, a pageant of unusual solemnity. The whole English nation was represented there the Nobility, the Judges, the Lord Mayor all the authorities both civil the Lord Mayor, all the authorities, both civil and religious. And walking in this grand procession between the Peers and the House of Commons, in a space set apart to do him honor, with the mace borne before him, and his train carried up, walked John Trevor, as Speaker of the House of Commons. None of the speakers before him had been thus distinguished as the first Commander of the Realm. No former speaker had been honored by heading in a royal procession the whole House of Commons. Thus was John Trevor, as the first Commoner of the Realm, publicly ennobled, on the 5th of March, 1695. Within one week, in the eyes of all England, he was a man the lowest and most degraded among Englishmen. This is how it happened: We saw Trevor, on the 5th of March, as Speaker of the House of Commons, heading the House, after Queen Mary's coffin. What is it that Trevor, only Pure Drugs and Chemicals, Patent Medicines, seven days later, had to do as Seaker-standing in his high place, standing there before all the representatives of England? He had to read aloud words to this effect: "Resolved. That Sir John Trevor, Speaker of this House, for receiving a gratuity of 1,000 guineas from the city of London, is guilty of a high crime. Thus ended the 12th day of March, 1690; and what a day it must have been for Trevor. During all that day he sat in the Speaker's chair conspicuous, exalted, while his guilt was exhibited in full. There he had to stay, in his post of office, raised aloft, that it might be proved that he, as Speaker of the House of Commons, had taken money to help a bill through Parliament. He was forced to see the papers specifying the day, the cause, the names of the persons who had bribed him, held up before his very face. He had to hear that all read aloud from the beginning to the end. Then read aloud from the beginning to the end. Then came the fulfillment of that end. Trevor was obliged to stand up, to read aloud, and to put SPRING and SUMMER wear, consisting of to the vote that resolution descriptive of his guilt. His words were quickly answered by shouts of "Aye," "Aye!" And then, as Speakers do, Trevor had to ask the House if any there were of a contrary opinion, but to that question came no answer. It was impossible for any one to say "no." So, as Speaker, he had himself to declare that he himself had been so base as to take a bribe. It seemed strange that any man could endure the ignominy of such moments. It was as much as this man could bear. Slippery as was Trevor's nature, he could not escape the grip of that great shame. Had he taken the chair the next day, he must have put to the House a vote for his own expulsion. This he avoided. He pleaded illness. Another Speaker was chosen. Soon after Trevor was expelled. Never again-never be fore-had the Speaker's chair been disgraced as by Trevor. And the shame was keenly felt by the House of Commons." Here was where our forefathers obtained their idea from. The trial of Trevor established that principle which was inserted in our Constitution. Washington felt overwhelmed with the importance of the protection of the country."

WOULDN'T BE MEAN ABOUT IT.—A couple of flat-boat men on the Mississippi River having made an extraordinary good speculation, concluded that while they were in New Orleans they would go for a first-class hotel dinner at the St. Charles Hotel. Having eaten the meal, they called for their bill. The waiter in attendance misunderstood them, and supposing that they wanted the bill of fare, laid it before them with the wine list uppermost.

"Whew, Bill!" said Jerry, "here is a bill!
Just look at it! Here, you add up one side and I'll add up the other, and we'll see what the old thing comes to." So Bill added up the prices of wines one side of the list, and Jerry added them up on the other, and they made the sum total $584.

"Wh—ew, Bill," said Jerry, that's pretty nigh all we've got! What are you going to do

"We can't pay that," said Bill, "it 'ud clean us right out. The waiter ain't here now, let's jump out the window and put !" "No, sir-ee," said Jerry, "I'd never do sich a mean thing as that. Let's pay the bill and then go down stairs and shoot the landlord.' SODA AND MINERAL WATERS.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by the early habits of youth, viz: Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symtoms of Consump-Mentally.—The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Foretion, &c.

bodings, Aversion to Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced. Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale, nervous and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of Consumption. YOUNG MEN Who have injured themselves by a certain practice, already described, a habit frequently learned from evil companions or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured, renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the pride of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyment of life by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in pernicious habits. Such persons must, before comtemplations

ing. MARRIAGE Reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without these the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prospect hourly darkens to the view, the mind becomes shadowed with despair, and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another is blighted with our own.

DISEASES OF IMPRUDENCE. When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame or dread of discovery deters him from applying to those who, from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease makes their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commisseration till death puts a period to his dreadful suffering, by sending him to that undiscovered country "from whence no traveller returns."

It is a mefancholy fact that thousands DIE victims to this terrible disease, through falling into the hands of ignorant or unskilful PRETENDERS, who, by the use of that deadly Poison, Mercury, &c., destroy the constitution, and incapable of curing, keep the unhappy sufferer month after month taking their noxious or injurious compounds, and instead of being reinjurious compounds, and instead of being reinjurious compounds, and instead of heaptness. injurious compounds, and instead of being re-stored to a renewal of Life, Vigor and Happiness in despair leaves him with ruined Health to sigh over his galling disappointment. DR. JOHNSTON OFFICE No. 7, South FREDERICK STREET BALTIMORE, MD.
